

Privacy Policy and Practices

Notice of Privacy Practices

Healthy State, Inc. ("Healthy State") has created this Privacy Policy to explain how and why we collect information from users of this Site and how we protect your personal privacy within the Site.

Information Collection Process

We receive information from you when you enter it on the Healthy State site. This may include your name, address, phone number, date of birth, email address, and any other data you have submitted on the site.

Sharing Information

We only share information that we are allowed to share by law. We may share your information with our agents for the purpose of contacting you once you have granted permission.

Protecting Healthy State Member Information

We keep your information safe and secure so unauthorized individuals do not have access to it. Only our employees, who need to know about your information to provide our products and services to you, have access to your information. We maintain physical, electronic, and procedural safeguards that comply with legal requirements to protect your information. Healthy State is committed to protecting the information you provide to us over the phone, in person, through the mail, or via e-mail. We respect the privacy of all individuals who visit our website.

Online Information

Like many companies today, Healthy State routinely gathers data on website usage, such as how many people visit our website, the sections they visit, what time they visit, how long they stay, etc. Site visitor data is collected on an aggregate, anonymous basis; no personal information or IP addresses are associated with this data unless you voluntarily provide it.